A cooperation between libraries during Covid-19 crisis

During COVID-19 crisis, libraries found a way to continue working, and cooperating with each other, aiming to support the community.

A digital local history collection for Banja Luka was born as a result of the cooperation between libraries from Bosnia & Herzegovina (Republika Srpska) and Serbia. The collection is containing articles in Serbian language. The oldest article in this collection was published in 1887. The material is searchable and organised into thematic areas.
