About the Conference

Against the Tide, is the European Network of Cultural Centres '2025 annual conference, taking place on September 17th-19th in Montenegro. In a time when democratic values are increasingly under threat, cultural organisations are being called upon to act as spaces for civic engagement and agents of social cohesion. This year's conference, set against the backdrop of Kotor's UNESCO World Heritage site, will explore and celebrate inclusion and democratic participation through culture, with a special focus on the needs, visions, and role of young generations.

Hosted by Kulturni Centar Nikola Djurkovic, the conference will offer panel discussions, guided tours, roundtables, workshops, youth-led sessions, and moments of networking.

What does the programme include

The three-day programme will feature an opening panel on creating safe spaces in practice, followed by workshops led by ENCC members, inspirational talks, and youth-led sessions. Participants will engage with local case studies, take part in reflection groups, and explore collaborative and intercultural practices through dedicated laboratories. The event also offers valuable opportunities to network with European and regional cultural actors, and concludes with an optional farewell boat tour. Throughout, the conference aims to foster new cross-sectoral synergies and European partnerships, with a special emphasis on connecting socio-cultural spaces across the Balkan region.
