Capacity Building ECoCs | Podcast 3: European and international dimension

Insights, best practices & know-how from experts from different fields on topics relevant for the design and the implementation of European Capitals of Culture.

European and international cooperation is one of the key features of each European Capital of Culture. The necessity of an early start for the planning and training of European and international projects to build sustainable international cooperation settings is indispensable.

In the third Academy Camp, they delved into a set of core topics: the added value of international cultural cooperation and the management of the international cultural cooperation in terms of finances and communications.

And now, ECoCs are bringing the third season of podcast with five experts exploring various aspects of the enhancement of the European and international cooperation of European Capitals of Culture.
