

Architecture Slovenia Open Call

Crafting Biodiversity: a Crash Course in Slovenia

Learn how to manage urban ecosystems and implement biodiversity-sensitive spatial interventions in Ljubljana. These two workshops with Trajna / Krater Collective, are designed for urban designers, ecologists, and anyone passionate about enhancing urban ecosystems.

Deadline: September 8, 2024, 10:00 CET

Organizers: Trajna / Krater Collective

Who is it for: Urban designers, ecologists, landscape architects, activists, and individuals passionate about biodiversity-sensitive urban development.

Program Dates: September 10 & 11, 2024

Location: Creative Laboratory Krater and various ecosystems across Ljubljana

Register here.

About the Course:

"A Crash Course in Crafting Biodiversity" is a two-day workshop series taking place in Ljubljana, designed to advance your understanding of urban biodiversity stewardship through innovative practices. Co-led by infrastructure activist Debra Solomon, landscape architect Urška Škerl, and geodesist Alen Mangafić, this program will delve into contemporary land stewardship practices aimed at urban ecosystem defragmentation and development strategies that support all urban species.

Participants will engage in "radical observation" of urban ecosystems, learn about administrative practices shaping urban spaces, and receive training in digital mapping tools. The course focuses on implementing biodiversity-sensitive spatial interventions in urban landscapes. The workshops will be held at the Creative Laboratory Krater and other ecosystems around Ljubljana.

Application Details:

You can register for the full course or individual workshops. Space is limited to 40 participants per workshop, and registrations are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Participants will be notified of their acceptance by September 8, 2024, at 14:00 CET.

You can read more about the Crash Course

here.

photo: Amadeja Smrekar / Krater