

All CCS and Cross-sectoral Events Austria News Open Call

"Creative Skills Week 2023 | Registration"

"For this year's ECHN Culture and Creativity Conference, is thrilled to announce a collaboration between the European Creative Hubs Network and the CYANOTYPES project and invite you to a joint event."

For the first time, the Cultural and Creative Industries are being addressed as an industrial ecosystem. The issue of skills gaps and needs is a critical concern not only to our peers and communities, but also to the stakeholders from all corners of the Cultural and Creative Industries Sectors (CCIS). In this context, European Creative Hubs Network and CYANOTYPES are proud to launch the first ever CREATIVE SKILLS WEEK gathering strategic-thinkers, policymakers, cultural workers and networks, creative and cultural hubs, creative and artistic practitioners together to co-create plans addressing urgent and future skills needs.

ECHN's General Assembly

9 October

You can now save the date, starting 9th October at 14:00 CET with the General Assembly, exclusive for registered ECHN members (to be updated on the event's page soon).

Check the Creative Skills Week website for updates in the agenda.

Keep in mind, ECHN members with an active membership can receive cost support to attend the event, which is kindly hosted by the University of Applied Art Vienna.

Conference

Anticipating Creative Futures

10 – 11 October 2023

Anticipating Creative Futures is a boundary-breaking programme of activities and actions and the main feature of Creative Skills Week 2023. Join creative thinkers, CCIS strategists and educators and actively participate in Anticipating Creative Futures workshops and plenaries. Get social at our evening receptions, become part of this growing momentum and fuel a sustainable CCIS ecosystem.

Event: 10-13 October 2023 Vienna, Austria

Register for the Anticipating Creative Futures Programme here