EDN Atelier: “Processes of Healing: Becoming Well Again”

Performing artists, researchers, dramaturgs, curators, community organisers, and other dance professionals are invited to join us in Cyprus this May to explore various theoretical and performative discourses on the concept of healing and taking time to process trauma.

Together with a series of collaborators and researchers from the fields of art, science, and philosophy, we attempt to explore healing both as a theme and a methodology.

What can art practices borrow from healing processes? How do artists address trauma and healing in their work? How can we heal ourselves, our community, and the land that we live in?

The programme is inspired by the three stages of trauma recovery:

- securing safety and selfcare,
- processing: remembering and grieving,
- reconnection and meaning.

Through talks and discussions, workshops and performative practices, curated walks, including a visit to the Hamam, we will focus on philosophical and artistic lineages that approach art as a healing mechanism as well as on tools for healing the arts and the art practitioners themselves.
