

All CCS and Cross-sectoral Events All Europe Countries Latvia Open Call

ETHO Technical Community Conference 2025: Call for proposals

The ETHO Technical Community Conference 2025 seeks proposals from technicians, educators, and students to explore the role of technical arts in shaping future teaching and practices. Hosted by RISEBA and organized by ELIA, this event will focus on emerging technologies, eco-responsibility, and fostering innovation in technical education.

Deadline for proposals: December 2, 2024

Conference Dates: 19–21 March 2025

Organizer: ELIA

Location: RISEBA – University of Applied Sciences, ...

Apply here.

Conference Theme: Crafting the Future

As higher arts education transforms, the ETHO community will come together to celebrate the essential contributions of technical staff to future-ready teaching, learning, and research. Over three days, the conference will provide a collaborative platform for discussing emerging technologies and innovative practices, with an emphasis on eco-responsibility, well-being, and the integration of traditional and modern crafts.

The ETHO Core Group invites technicians, educators, students, and technical service professionals to contribute presentations, workshops, or discussions that foster engagement and explore key themes. Submissions should address areas such as:

In January 2020 ELIA and ETHO signed a collaboration agreement to join forces. ETHO (European Technical Heads Organisation) is a network of higher art education technical staff. Established in 2016, ETHO aims to advance hands-on learning and innovation in all artistic disciplines through an inclusive community. _____

To read more about the conference and the submission details please visit ELIA's official website.

Image Credit: RISEBA – University of Applied Sciences