Europa Nostra | Webinar Youth4Heritage

Europa Nostra is organising Youth4Heritage Webinar to bring together heritage and peace-building experts with emerging and seasoned professionals.

Europe has been a paradigm of multiculturalism, serving as the birthplace of numerous civilisations and the custodian of their creations. The fruits of this creativity and endeavour are what we refer to today as European heritage. However, upon examining the annals of history, it becomes evident that heritage has frequently been employed to erode cultural and national identities for political purposes. Ideological movements, such as nationalism or imperialism, have inflicted lasting damage upon Europe's cultural diversity for centuries.

From the desecration of religious monuments to the construction of memorials against fascism, we find ourselves at a juncture where we must confront our past and seek reconciliation.

This participatory online event endeavours to bring together heritage and peace-building experts and both emerging and seasoned professionals. By doing so, the aim is to inspire and foster an exchange of ideas that positions heritage as a conduit for peace and reconciliation. Through this collective endeavour, Europa Nostra strives to tread a path that recognises the significance of Europe's cultural heritage while actively working towards mending the wounds of the past and the present.

This webinar is organised by Europa Nostra in the frame of its network project European Cultural Heritage Agora co-funded by the Creative Europe programme of the European Union.

Webinar: 16 November 2023, online
