

Media & Press | All Europe Countries | Creative Europe Community | Open Call

Europavox Campus 2025: Mentoring Program for young editors

Europavox invites young people aged 18–30 to apply for an editorial mentoring program. Participants will join collective workshops and mentoring sessions with professional journalists, focusing on topics like ecology, greening, and equality.

Deadline: 22 September 2024 (1pm CET)

Organizer: Europavox

Who is it for? Young people 18–30, residing in Europe of a country participating in the Creative

Europe program, interested in writing and journalism

Event Dates: 1 & 2 October (Collective workshops), 3 – 14 October (Individual mentoring)

Apply here

Europavox Campus gives the chance to young editors, aged 18–30 to take part in a free editorial mentoring program, guided by professional journalists. In just a few weeks, participants will join collective workshops, benefit from individual mentoring, and publish a journalistic article on campus.europavox.com, later shared across Europavox's social media.

Key elements of the program

- 2 online collective workshops: introduction to journalism & editorial posture + social media & personal branding (LinkedIn)
- Individual mentoring: 1–2 tailored sessions with a professional journalist
- Editorial production: an article (350–800 words), with supporting social media content
- Official publication on the Europavox Campus platform, with

European visibility

The program will focus on the following topics:

Ecology and green transition, Equality and inclusion, Youth jobs and mobility, Peace and democracy, Culture and Music

Benefits for participants

- A free mentoring program certified by Europavox
- The opportunity to work with professional journalists
- An official publication, shared on Europavox social media
- Integration into a European community of young writers and creators

For more information and to submit your application, please visit Europavox's official website.

Image: Courtesy of Europavox