Four cross-sectoral residency Opportunities in Berlin

transmediale invites researchers, artists, theorists, and practitioners to apply for its 2025 residency programme.&nbsp;

&nbsp;

Application Deadline: October 20, 2024

transmediale, in collaboration with international and local partners, is accepting applications for its 2025 residency programme. The two-month hybrid residencies, taking place remotely and on-site in Berlin between May and July 2025, offer researchers, artists, theorists, practitioners, and activists the opportunity to further develop or explore new projects. The residencies focus on fields such as media studies, digital art, media theory, and technology studies.

Each residency provides a monthly stipend, housing support, and funding for travel and accommodation during the transmediale festival. Four residency types are available, each with specific eligibility criteria:

1) Digital Art Residency:

This is the third iteration of the Digital Art Residency in cooperation with the Swiss Arts Council Pro Helvetia. It will be awarded to two artists.

Who is it for? Two artists working in the field of digital art practices, design, sound, media theory, with Swiss nationality or a permanent residence in Switzerland who are firmly established in the Swiss cultural scene. Applications are open for visual artists, cultural practitioners, designers, and sound artists. The call is open to all formats, with a focus on research-based practices.

Amount: Each resident will be awarded with an artist fee of € 2,250 per month plus per diem for the month in Berlin, and travel and accommodation for the festival and residency. Applications from duos or collectives are welcome, however the fee remains the same and needs to be split accordingly.

2) transmediale x ARKO Residency:

In collaboration with the Arts Council Korea, transmediale presents the first edition of the new residency programme. It will be awarded to one person of Korean nationality.

Who is it for? One person of Korean nationality, based in Korea or elsewhere, working in the fields of digital art and moving image practices, design, sound, and media theory.

Amount: The two-month residency will be awarded with an artist fee of € 1,500 per residency month. There are no funds available for travel and housing for the resident. Applications from duos or collectives are welcome, however the fee remains the same and needs to be split accordingly.

About transmediale

transmediale is a Berlin-based festival and year-round project that brings together art, culture, and technology to foster critical understanding of the digital age. Founded in 1988, transmediale engages artists, researchers, and activists in exploring the intersection of media and contemporary society. Through exhibitions, performances, and conferences, transmediale promotes new perspectives on how digital technologies shape our world. The residency programme is an integral part of transmediale's mission to nurture long-term artistic collaboration and innovative research across disciplines.
