Symposium: Parenting in the Arts

On 3 July 2025, the symposium Parenting in the Arts invites artists, cultural workers, policymakers, and local professionals to Kunstverein München for a full-day programme exploring how the art world can become more inclusive, supportive, and equitable for artist parents and caregivers.

Event Date: July 3, 2025

Organizer: The Artist and the Others, Jane Beran and Jessica Capra

Who is it for: artists, cultural workers, policymakers, and local professionals

About the Symposium

The Parenting in the Arts symposium will bring together diverse voices to ask hard questions about how the art world can better support those balancing creative practice with caregiving. In an industry where structures often exclude artist parents, this gathering advocates for new tools, infrastructures, and policies to enable more inclusive participation.

Set across the Archivraum and Foyer of Kunstverein München, the programme will be held primarily in English, with workshops in English or German depending on participants' needs. The event is organised on a pay-what-you-can basis to promote accessibility.
