

All CCS and Cross-sectoral Cultural Heritage & Museums Music Performing Arts Festivals Visual Arts Events Austria

Tech Meets Culture: CultTech Summit 2025 in Vienna

CultTech Summit 2025 returns to Vienna from 22–23 October, exploring how technology is transforming cultural work and how artists and institutions are shaping that transformation. The event brings together over 70 international speakers, a global partner expo, live artistic showcases, and a space for hands-on conversations about impact, access, and sustainability in the cultural tech landscape.

Event Dates: 22–23 October 2025
Location: Vienna, Austria
Organiser: CultTech Association
Who It's For: Cultural professionals, artists, founders, funders, researchers, and policymakers

Read more and purchase your ticket here.

What Is This About?

The two-day summit focuses on three key themes: cultural impact, sustainable revenue models, and equitable access. Through keynotes, panels, roundtables, and exhibitions, the Summit opens up cross-sector exchange on emerging technologies and their real-world applications in culture.

Attendees will hear from speakers like Heiner Goebbels (composer/director), Jonathan Fine (Director General, KHM Museums), and Katerina Cizek (MIT Open Documentary Lab). Talks will dive into AI in European cultural policy, rights and licensing for AI-generated media, museum audience measurement, and funding models for creative projects.

What to Expect

- 70+ speakers and sessions across two main
- Community-led roundtables to share exp challenges
- Startup pitches and networking with founders
- Global Expo featuring 40 cultural and tech partners
- Artistic programme spanning VR, music, and performance

Find out more about CultTech Summit 2025 on their official website.

Images: Courtesy of CultTech Association

Co-funded by the European Union