The first issue of JTM magazine is waiting for submissions

JTM is a new magazine about art, design, architecture and scenography looking for submissions for their upcoming first issue.

JTM is an annual publication which promotes and makes understandable approaches and know-how in art, design, architecture and scenography. Each issue is devoted to a particular thematic sentence (quotation, references, words) which guides the selection of subjects, spaces, pieces or invited people. JTM presents an annual vision of architecture and design, paying great attention to those who create with their greatest emotions and who shape the creation of tomorrow.

If you are a designer, architect, scenographer, artist, photographer (or other) and you wish to propose one of your projects or pieces of work, or any creation that resonates with this first thematic sentence: “So that you love me again”, send it to the form.

JTM's main focus is to create real, genuine collaborations with our future authors. The process is split into two phases the collaboration: an abstract in the first place, which is a kind of note of intention and the complete article. All the received abstracts must be unpublished and written exclusively for JTM.

Stage 1

An abstract explaining the general approach: the unfolding of ideas composing your article. You have the possibility to document it with images. Direct contact to schedule a meeting or call before the deadline is recommended.

An abstract of 500 words, from 0 to 5 images illustrating your idea, a 200—words biography (Please do not enclose your curriculum vitae but describe your career path and your projects in a few lines), only to send from the form.

Stage 2

Article between 2.000 and 3.500 words.
